

Summary of Changes to 2026 Bedding Rates

Mattresses from professional users (hotels, campsites, cruise operators, etc.) are generally of good quality and relatively recent (three to four years old). These material streams are of interest to many social and solidarity economy (SSE) organisations, which can direct them towards reuse.

Reuse, particularly when carried out locally, ranks first in the waste management hierarchy. It is also more cost-effective than energy recovery or recycling.

Against this backdrop, Ecomaison is implementing a systematic reuse strategy for mattress streams from these professional users, in order to improve their management and generate savings. These savings are therefore reflected in the eco-fee rates applicable to these mattresses when placed on the market.

Rates effective from 1 October 2026

PROFESSIONAL BEDDING

Rates per unit by size, excl. VAT (€)

For products sold as a bundle (for example, a bed base and headboard), the applicable eco-fee is the sum of the eco-fees for each product.

These rates apply to:

- Products sold directly by the manufacturer to legal entities that do not resell them.

Application of these rates is subject to:

- Systematic reporting to Ecomaison of used bedding sent for reuse by the professional customer (donation to a non-profit organisation or second-hand resale)

or

- A request for the used bedding to be collected by Ecomaison's partners and directed to approved reuse channels or, where appropriate, recycling.
